letter. The two listed exemptions include “medical reasons including prior recovery from COVID-19” and “reasons of personal conscience or religious belief”. Failure of an employer to allow for either of these exemptions will most likely result in an unemployment claim against that employer. Wow.

This is wonderful news for the hundreds of constituents who have contacted my office. If you are an employee who is subjected to a vaccine mandate in violation of the Governor’s Executive Order, you are encouraged to reach out to the TWC at 800-929-6631, or by emailing vaccine_job_loss@twc.texas.gov. According to the letter, verified tips from employees who have been impacted by employer mandates will be referred to the appropriate authorities for prosecution.

So honored to receive the 2021 Faith & Family Champion Award from Texas Values on Wednesday.

Wednesday afternoon, Governor Abbott issued an Executive Order including a Letter to Employers that was sent out by the Texas Workforce Commission. This Executive Order, and the attached letter is a big win for medical autonomy. It says that an employer must allow for exemptions, and a simple exemption form is attached to the (Right) Thank you First Baptist Wylie for a wonderful parade in downtown Wylie on Sunday night.

PS: I need your help more than ever. Will you give to my campaign?
